

Catholic Charities

Providing help and creating hope for those with troubled marriages.

Catholic Charities provides counseling services to help people along life's paths and through challenging times. Their licensed mental health therapists work with adults and children, offering individual, couple and family therapies. Their services are open to everyone regardless of ethnic, religious, cultural, socio-economic or immigration status.

Counseling sessions are private and confidential, and provided in accordance with existing state and federal laws, and both the National Association of Social Workers and Catholic Charities USA codes of ethics.

Counseling is provided from a holistic perspective which recognizes the emotional, behavioral, cognitive, spiritual and physical aspects within individuals, couples and families.

Counseling sessions are arranged by appointment only through contacting the regional offices of Catholic Charities.
